HAYNES HAPPENINGS

April 8th. At last, at last, we're in the swim. Mr. S. Burnett, the C.N.T. agent, is installing a radio above the station, and from this on will have lots of visitors. Also Mrs. Burnett doesn't see how she's going to do more housework any more. Incidentally, we can all keep in touch with the very latest out in the wide, wide world.

Mr. C. E. Sherburne has been spending a few days in Calgary looking after his eyes.

Charlie Russell got back from the bush west of Olds, Sunday. He and his brothers have been using a timber permit with their sawmill this winter.

We counted 35 Haynes people out at Statwood last Friday to hear the Lenten concert. Most of the arrangements for going had been made when they expected to root for a debate, but when the debate was called off, they went anyhow. Everybody enjoyed the program and are ready to go again when the "Long Troupe" come to Haynes, Friday, the 11th.

The Ladies' Club put in an extra enjoyable afternoon for April with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas. This was a testimonial of a surprise party, and Mrs. Bucknell and two or three ladies were the guests, while Mrs. Thomas was a guest with the rest. Precisely every woman and child in the neighborhood were there, and a delightful time was had all round. We counted over 30 women, besides all the kiddies. Correspondence was read about a short course in dress-making and the Club hopes to have it in August.

Mrs. Gray and children are spending a week or two with Mr. Sade now the house has gone, and expect to go to Alton next week.

Mrs. Sage's sister, Mrs. Clutchy, and family, from Alton have been spending a week or so at Haynes.

Mrs. Joe Best and children returned home this week.

It is rumored Charlie and Joe are to have a new store this spring on their lot opposite the hardware.

Stuart Thompson has an ample stock of lumber in again with more to follow.

Alex Norquay is putting in ice these days for Wong's. When we want to make ice cream, we'll borrow some.

Captain Landy of Montrose Has Adventurous Career

Painted Funnel Green To Placate Liverpool Irish

Captain Edwin Landy's recent adventures in the waters of the Canadian Pacific have been the subject of much talk in the town of Montrose. He is a native of the County of Dublin, and his career as a seaman in 1888, when at the age of 16 he embarked on the schooner R.K.P. He remained with this vessel for 12 months, after which he sailed for the United Kingdom as an ordinary seaman. In this ship he made a round voyage of two years, and then returned to the Clyde. He made a second voyage on this vessel as able bodied seaman, after which he passed for second mate, in which capacity he made a trip to the Mediterranean.

When the Canadian Pacific took over the ships of the Beaver Line in 1914, Captain Landy was appointed as a junior officer to the ship "The Montrose". He remained with this ship for three years, and then was promoted to the rank of Captain. He has since then been in command of the ship "The Montrose", and has been in command of the ship "The Montrose" for the last three years.

It is wonderful how domesticated the cat has become. Yet we have only to see her knead her head before setting to realize that the wild animal strain persists in her, for her ancestors turned round and round and kneaded their beds to soften the forest growths.

When in absolute ecstasy she will paw the air with outstretched claws. In making a new friend she will arch her back and hold up her front paws, saying, "I know you like me."

Give your cat for dinner something she doesn't like, and watch her sniff to shake her right paw, and walk away in disgust. If she is really hungry and no other food offers, she will return to the dislikable dish, making a queer cackling hiss as she eats it, and saying, "Must have it if there's nothing else in the larder."

Watch her "smile" at you when she is pleased. She does this by closing her eyes slowly and opening them again. A cat will "smile" like this every time when spoken to by someone she loves.

THORNTON STAYS WITH RAILWAYS

Ottawa, April 3.—Speaking over the Canadian National radio station from here last night, E. D. Galloway, chief of the Canadian National Railways, denied, at his chief's request, the recent report that Sir Henry Thornton, dean of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, "did not know how or where this 'rumor' originated."

Sir Henry had told Mr. Galloway, "but so long as the men will stick by me I have no intention of abandoning the ship." Mr. Galloway said this was indeed good news to the officials and employees in general, and the Canadian National Railways, and he believed good news to all Canadians throughout the country.

BROOKSLEY BEAMS

Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Olafson and family have taken up residence on the Rogers ranch.

A very pleasant evening was spent by the young folks on March 28th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Millar, the occasion being their first wedding anniversary.

Mrs. John Davis entertained the members of the Brooksley Community Club on March 29th to a turkey banquet, and all the usual delightful trimmings that accompany same. The customary club meeting followed. Mrs. Clifton Spers reported on the recent Red Deer convention and lectures.

Mrs. Tom Blackburn gave a paper on "What do we invest of ourselves in our community?" Mrs. Clement Brock spoke on "Our school and school fair."

We would like to express deep sympathy with our Sattawood friend in his egg trouble. We have seen 'em disfigured and mutilated, but we know you. We can't pass on good advice from one "Billie Morton." Why not "Buddie" and "Buddie" and "Buddie" are out or better still, come over the fence to our district where "turkeys" seems still to be the order of the day.

Almost every home in the district was represented at the schoolhouse on April 1st, where a farewell dance was given to Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brock, who are leaving for Vancouver Island.

After supper Mr. Spers spoke a few words, expressing the regret of all in the neighborhood at their going, and retired them of the united good wishes for every success in their new venture, to which Mr. Brock responded.

Following hands the command "For they are jolly good fellows" and "Auld Lang Syne." Mr. Brock has farmed our district for thirteen years, and will be greatly missed, especially from our social activities.

ECONOMY CAMPAIGN

Cost of Government Administration Is High Compared to U. S.

Cities from coast to coast are now co-operating in the National Economy Campaign, and in the west, splendid co-operation from the press and speakers throughout the Dominion is paving the way for a joint, united front of eastern and western communities and the presentation of definite requests to the Federal Government.

"The national debt of Canada has almost doubled since 1918, the debt in that year was $1,400,000,000. Today it is $2,400,000,000. We are paying in taxes to the Dominion Government approximately $1,000,000,000 a year, and the statisticians tell us that one dollar out of every five dollars earned in this country goes to some government or other."

If we take the Federal Cabinet as an example of cost to this country, we find that the cost of the Federal Cabinet is $1,000,000,000 a year, and the statisticians in the United States find that in Canada we have fifteen times as much.

WARNING RE SMALLPOX

To the Editor of the Advocate:

Dear Sir:—In view of the prevalence of smallpox in some towns and cities near us, it might be well for your readers to know something about the recent epidemic in Ontario, particularly in and around Windsor. The total number of cases in Windsor alone up to March 3 was over 40; the Windsor and the United States has had 10,000 deaths in 12. The total number of cases in Windsor and adjoining towns from the middle of February to March 3 was 60, with 13 deaths.

One of the chief lessons learned from this epidemic was the unquestioned value of vaccination. The severe cases all occurred in unvaccinated individuals, while those who had been vaccinated, even over 12 years ago, had a very mild attack. The medical health officer of the Border Cities says: "This is the most severe epidemic of smallpox in Canada since the 1885 Montreal epidemic, and the deaths among unvaccinated persons suffering from the disease will run 50 per cent." He also says "The value of vaccination as a means of prevention has been proved as never before."

It is certainly a wise precaution to take to see that children are vaccinated, besides adults who have not been recently treated.

Trusting the above information will be of interest as well as of service to your many readers in and around Red Deer, I remain,

Yours very truly,
B. W. DeLONG,
M.H.O., City of Red Deer.

EGG HANDLING

By the Co-op-Interesting Organization

Beginning on Tuesday, April 1, the Farmers Co-operative Marketing Association took over the handling of eggs in Red Deer city and immediate district, and will probably handle almost all of the eggs produced in the territory covered by the Co-op's activities. The Red Deer merchants have arranged with the Co-op to take over the eggs coming to their stores and grade them. While there may be some inconvenience at first until the new machinery gets in order, yet in the long run the arrangements are expected to work out better all round.

When the egg grading regulations became compulsory on the storekeepers on March 1, the system of handling eggs from their customers had to be changed. It was at once recognized that a central grading station would be to the advantage of all, and the Co-op undertook the work. So long as the home market or the provincial market could absorb the eggs produced in the district, there was not so much call for grading, but with the rapid development of egg production in Alberta the past two years, the grading system became necessary, as eggs could not be sold very much more than at the local level.

CONDOR FARMERS' CLUB

nothing but extras and No. 1s, except one crack, and 8 1/2 dozen out of his 12 dozen were extras.

A meeting of the Condor Farmers' Club was held in the Commercial Hall on Saturday, March 29, with twenty people present.

An Entertainment committee was formed as follows: W. Prndergast, M. Resetz, S. Hastie, Alma Macdonald, Mrs. Hewitt and D. S. Hastie.

Discussion of the secretary's salary then arose, and it was moved by A. Avery and seconded by W. Prndergast that the secretary be paid 50 per cent of the membership fee. Carried.

A very protracted argument was then taken up over the much debated question of hog shipping from Condor. J. Craig and D. Blair endeavored to pass a vote of censure for failure to notify the manager of the Live Stock Shipping Association of previous shipments. On being put to the meeting, the motion was lost as the majority of those present thought it unnecessary as long as the Association is represented at nine points.

It was moved by R. Prndergast and seconded by J. Craig that the Farmers' Club accept the suggestion of S. Hastie, who should handle the different hogs, weigh them and give the owners tickets of the weights. Later in the day they should phone the different buyers and ask price for each, and on number of hogs received, and sell the tickets to the buyers. Mr. Hastie stated that the farmers suffered more than any other class owing to the deflation of money, and they have their buying power was curtailed accordingly, and while no one could blame them for trying to get the last cent out of their produce, they should not forget that the Live Stock Shipping Association had been handling their hogs in the past, and that Mr. Patterson's deal would go just as far as anyone else's.

On the motion of R. Prndergast and seconded by J. Craig, the secretary was instructed to send notice of the above motion to the members of the club, as well as the date of the next meeting.

Some discussion arose over the proposed Egg Pool, but as nothing definite has yet been heard from those in charge of the pool in Red Deer, it was decided to leave the matter in abeyance for the present, but no doubt the pool will meet with unanimous support at this point.

On the motion of J. Craig and R. Prndergast, the meeting adjourned until April 12, at 8 p.m.

THE FARMER AND HIS HORSES

The farmer works with his horses; they are his partners, his faithful helpers in all the work of farming, declares a writer, evidently drawing upon his own experience, in a leading article in Southern Agriculture. With them, day after day and year after year, he goes out to tend the fields or to bring home the fruit of his labors; and so working them season after season he and they grow close to each other, and come after awhile to work together with a confidence and an understanding that few human partnerships ever know. The good farmer and the good horse come not only to understand and to appreciate, but even to love each other. I have seen the big mares in the pasture pick up their ears at the sound of their owner's voice and come up to the bars to nuzzle him and be petted, and then to walk contentedly around, grazing near him until he left the field. I have seen the faithful and dependable old bays, who have been with him over his back and two or three about and under his feet, walking with unwonted speed and carelessness under and among them and responding with patient gentleness to all their pullings and poundings. I have seen the heavily-loaded team take the wagon up the long, steep hill while the farmer walked behind, speaking never a word to them, but leaving them to stop and start as they wished. I have seen the farmer, the the of the hill, take time to lift the collars and rub the noses and stroke the necks of his sturdy helpers while they stood patiently, waiting for him to climb on the wagon that they might go home. I have seen him, with his hand on the horse's head, looking down at the horse he had raised from a foal, and when that horse, grown and feeble, was waiting this end and that must come to all who live.

Remembering these things I have seen, and remembering the days when as a barefoot boy I rode and drove and clambered about the big, fat, steady-going farm mares with their clear eyes and glossy coats, full of confidence that they would do what I asked and yield to the slightest turning of my hand, I have known that there was a very real affection in all these relations and that the partnership between the farmer and his horses is a partnership not only of fellow workers but of friends.

With all the inventive genius of man may bring of mechanical power to the farm, there is still room for a place for the farm horse. For an engine is but an engine, when all is said and done, it is still a machine, and it is not a partner, nor a friend, nor a creature that can be loved and that will bring a reserve power that comes from living muscle and willing brain; while the horse will forever remain a sentient and lovable thing, a thing of abounding life, of compelling beauty, of intimate understanding, the helper, the confidant, the sympathetic companion of the man who tills the fields.

The farm without horses would be but partly a farm; the farmer without his horses would be but partly a farmer. For his horses lack something of being truly a farmer.

HOW CATS CAN TALK

Few persons really know their cats. Yet cats can talk, though it is with a dumb language.

Give your cat for dinner something she doesn't like, and watch her sniff to shake her right paw, and walk away in disgust. If she is really hungry and no other food offers, she will return to the dislikable dish, making a queer cackling hiss as she eats it, and saying, "Must have it if there's nothing else in the larder."

Watch her "smile" at you when she is pleased. She does this by closing her eyes slowly and opening them again. A cat will "smile" like this every time when spoken to by someone she loves.

When in absolute ecstasy she will paw the air with outstretched claws. In making a new friend she will arch her back and hold up her front paws, saying, "I know you like me."

Argentine Promises Pensions To All (Who Have Worked for 25 Years)

Buenos Aires, April 2.—Nobody laid down his tools to take advantage of the new law abolishing work for everyone who had toiled 25 years. The new pensions law became official yesterday, but all indications were it did not operate. Everyone in the Argentine, who had worked a quarter century or more were entitled to quit and draw a pension from the government for the remainder of his life.

As no provision for raising in advance the huge sum required had been made, however, no one took a chance.

Central headquarters for the elaborate machinery required to give effect to the pensions law were opened in a business block in Buenos Aires, with considerable ceremony.

Federal and city employees attended. Apparently they are to be the first affected.

Whereas, anyone who has labored 25 years was entitled to stop and draw his pension, anyone who had not worked 25 years was supposed to pay 5 percent of his salary to the pensions fund.

No greater rush to comply with this portion of the law was observed than was the case with those who might have dropped shovel or hoe and started on a life rest.

Opponents of the measure still hope

SATINWOOD SMILES

The left half battalion of the Ladies' Club advanced in column of fours or fives and came to a halt in smart military fashion at the home of Mrs. Chas. Stuart on Wednesday last. The occasion was a dinner given to the husbands in honor of spring, and the last of the winter festivities. The tables were prettily decorated with a brilliant display of the latest spring styles of ladies' hats in miniature. The ladies who made these hats are to be highly complimented on their ingenuity, the effect being both novel and charming. In the centre of each table was a large hat box with pink and blue streamers leading to each hat. The place cards were also quite novel. Each had a sign post on pointing to spring, decorated with hand painted tulips. In addition, the ladies cards had brushes and the men's an axe and fork, these being reminders of feasts to be accomplished with the hands in the near future. Once again may we compliment the Satinwood artist. The menu was up to the usual standard of excellence our ladies are noted for. wonder how many can remember fifteen or twenty years back, when it was rabbit and potatoes? I think we should erect a monument to the rabbit to remind us of the valiant part it played in our early history. After dinner the time was occupied in playing progressive games. The party dispersed at a late hour. Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Barnhill, Mr. and Mrs. Ditzler, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Favett, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Favett, Miss Hope, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Leng, Mr. D. Pyper, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart and Mr. and Mrs. J. Waldron.

A splendid concert was given at the schoolhouse on Friday last, and was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd present. A nice sum was realized, which will be used in procuring things for the school children to play with during the coming summer. May we take this opportunity of thanking those who so ably assisted with the programme. To single anyone out for special praise would be invidious, but probably it is pardonable to mention the Jungle Troupe Orchestra. It is perfectly obvious that these musicians must have spent considerable time in practicing their various pieces, which included classical numbers. The concert of opinion was that they had improved one hundred per cent on their previous endeavors.

This is a good place to mention an abominable atrocity which exists in nearly all schoolhouses, namely the organ. In each school one goes into this beautiful animal lives. As a rule half the notes won't play and the other half are out of tune, which, to say the least, is not conducive to good results. In our organ I believe a coyote has nested, but I am not quite sure. I am looking out for a government job, and at the same time I see the minister Greenfield is going to ask him to see his influence with the Governor. Canada to have me appointed as Minister of Organs, this is to be without a portfolio, but "very much with" coal and matches. I assure him right now that my work would be effective. All I would want is a gallon of coal oil and a few matches for each organ, and on the side a little commission from all the organ firms in Canada. Of course I am successful in pulling down this job, I won't mention the latter item. You see I would go to work with a purely altruistic motive. I say, aside, how can we get good music and singing unless our national (?) instrument—the organ—is somewhere near in tune and playable?

ESTIMATING A COW'S FUTURE BY HER PRODUCTION

DURING HER FIRST LACTATION PERIOD

(Experimental Farms Note)

It is the custom with some dairymen to use the production of the first, or two-year-old lactation period, as a basis for culling the herd. As a general rule this is a good policy to follow. A good heifer sufficiently matured to make a good record at her first calving is a desirable animal to use as a breeder in the herd. Occasionally, however, a mistake is made in disposing of a heifer that does poorly during her first lactation. Whether the owner sells her to the butcher or to some unsuspecting neighbor, the fact remains that frequently he makes a mistake and disposes of a young animal which later develops into a fine mature cow. There are many instances on record of young animals were sold at very ordinary prices which later developed into magnificent cows.

On the Agassiz Experimental Farm to day, twenty-eight two-year-old heifers have made R.O.P. records. Five produced over 16,000 pounds of milk, seven produced between 14,000 and 16,000 pounds, while sixteen gave less than 14,000 pounds. All the heifers which produced over 14,000 pounds of milk are valuable animals; the cows that made the highest heifer record also yielded the largest mature production. Of the sixteen heifers which produced less than 14,000 pounds of milk, only two have completed mature records and each did exceptionally well. The cow which stood in twentieth place amongst the two-year-olds came through at a mature cow with 24,567 pounds, although as a heifer she gave only 13,955 pounds. And she has been culled from the herd because she produced less than 14,000 pounds as a heifer. The herd would have been much a good cow and a purchaser would have annexed a valuable animal.

An interesting comparison is available between the production of cows, which were of much the same breeding, reared together and generally handled in the same manner. The first as a two-year-old produced 12,707 pounds of milk, which was 450 pounds more than number two. As a four-year-old the first only increased production slightly while two years later the second cow produced 21,071 pounds of milk. The latter is a good example of a cow with only fair heifer record, making over 21,000 pounds as a mature cow. There are at least two other cows in the herd each of which gave less than 10,000 pounds as heifers and have not been culling since, but are capable of producing over 20,000 pounds. Where a breeder has a large herd he desires to retain only the best animals, the first lactation periods

CRIPPLED BY RHEUMATISM

Began to Improve After Taking "Fruit-a-lives"

The Medicine Made From Fruit

You can get rid of Rheumatism. You can be free of pain—of swollen hands and feet—of aching legs and back.

"Fruit-a-lives" will drive the cause of Rheumatism out of the system and give you permanent relief.

For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. Finally I decided to try "Fruit-a-lives". Before using half a box, I noticed improvement. Continued taking "Fruit-a-lives" improving all the time. I can now walk about two miles and do chores around the place.

are a suitable basis for determining the value of the future cow, but where a breeder is endeavoring to increase the size of his herd economically, he cannot afford to be too hasty in disposing of females until they are given another chance. Some cows mature earlier than others, and although the earlier maturing ones are probably the more desirable, many others prove to be valuable in any herd.

THE PROBLEM OF EDUCATION

Judging by the reports in the daily press, the debate in the Alberta Legislature on the educational estimates for 1924 was a disappointing one. It revealed merely a vague dissatisfaction with the rising cost of public education, and some difference of opinion as to which sphere of that education should be selected for economies. Of anything like a broad grasp of educational theories and educational problems there was no sign from any section of the Legislature. This may be due to the fact that the members are all agreed upon the general principles of educational policy, are quite satisfied with them, and consider that only the details of administration call for discussion. On the other hand, it may be due to the less satisfactory fact that the members have never considered what the general principles of education are, or realized that there are any problems of education other than that of finding the money to run the schools.

Nevertheless, the question of education is a crucial one. School taxes may be the only reason why the people at large can be induced to take any interest in it, but inasmuch as they are being forced to take an interest of some kind, the opportunity is being created for the consideration of other aspects of the question which are at least as important as the financial one.

It would have been interesting if the Legislature had given some consideration to the fundamental question of the right of parents to public education for their children. Suppose a man rents his house and owns no other property, but has four or five children of school age, while his next-door neighbour owns his house and other property as well but has no children at school. On just what principle does the one man get free education for those children, while the other pays a considerable sum in school taxes but gets nothing in return for it? There was a very slight passing reference to this point during the debate in connection with an alleged proposal to charge fees for high school education, but the right to such free education was neither questioned nor examined. It was merely asserted confidently. Yet should it really be taken for granted? Is there no room for questioning the entire justice of such a situation between two such men?

Then there was no real discussion as to the nature or the quality of the education given in our schools. Is it entirely certain that all is well in that respect? Is it not possible to ask whether too much emphasis is being laid on acquisition of knowledge along certain limited lines, and too little on the training of character? How far are our schools tending to turn out merely mediocre clerks or professional men, and adopting something like an attitude of contemptuous indifference towards the fundamental questions of life? It is pleasing to hear the Minister for Education declare confidently that the curriculum of the Alberta schools is recognized as the ideal one, but just what does that mean, and what are the factors that constitute it as such?

There seems to be room for further consideration of this matter, and such consideration we shall try to give it hereafter.

FLYING IN CANADA

It was a notable thing in the late war how large a proportion of the pilots in the British Air Service was composed of men from Canada. The Air Service seemed to appeal to our young men by its novelty, its qualities of independence and initiative, its comparative freedom from monotony and drudgery, its thrilling excitement in the hours of action. The danger of it was no deterrent. Of course, the danger to the flying man was really no greater, in fact, was probably much less, than the danger to the unhappy infantry officer sitting in his trench waiting to be killed like a rat in a trap, or plodding slowly over muddy, sheet-torn ground through the roar and flame of artillery and machine-gun barrages. Yet there was something peculiarly terrible about the dangers of the airman, liable to be hit by shell or machine-gun fire in mid-air and to fall crashing helplessly to earth thousands of feet below. Our young men were very ready to face those dangers.

Canada, and Western Canada in particular, with its great open, level prairies lying with the one of the finest natural flying countries in the world. Yet flying in Canada is a neglected science. Apart from a little work done in connection with the Forestry and Survey Departments, and possibly with the anti-smuggling forces at the Coast, there is now practically no flying at all done in Canada. Even the exhibition flying and the taking up of passengers at the Fairs seem to have lost their attraction.

In other countries, both in the States and war-torn Europe, flying has made and is making great strides since the war. All over Europe commercial flying services are in existence. Great Britain, after losing round heavily in the years immediately after the war, is wakening up again, and in quality if not in quantity, her flying machines and their pilots are in the front rank.

The new light aeroplanes, of which the British "Wren" is an example, are not only very safe to fly, but exceedingly cheap in upkeep and operation, cheaper, it is said, than the motor cars which swarm in Canada and the States. It seems strange that we are so slow in taking the new science and using it for our profit and pleasure.

Possibly lack of money is one of the main reasons for the neglect and lack of imagination another. The number of very rich men in Canada is small, though the average level of living is high. Then Canada is not yet a true industrial country, and it is in the industrial countries that the pace of business is forced up to a swift rush in which hours saved by getting about quickly are reckoned of high value. Here the farms were moving slowly into market and the long, slow-travelling grain freight train tend to set the pace of business. It is not a bad thing in one way, for the hectic rush of the great industrial cities is not really a healthy thing.

It is also possible that the already existing transport agencies, the railways mainly, have no desire to see a rival method of transportation become popular, and have used their influence in official quarters to bring government encouragement of commercial flying either for mail-carrying or other purposes.

It is a pity that this neglect of flying should continue. Flying by human beings is one of the great discoveries of all time, and must have an enormous influence hereafter both in peace and war. Sooner or later we shall have to turn our attention to flying. As a people we cannot afford to fall behind in the knowledge and use of the developments of science.

VIMY RIDGE DAY

This is the anniversary of the battle of Vimy Ridge, and the thoughts of many will go back to that cold and stormy morning, seven years ago, when the Canadian Corps gained one of its most notable triumphs in the war. The passing years may dim the vividness of the recollection. They should foster, however, as a people to forget what was done on that day and other days of the war and what we owe to it.

We have ventured on several occasions to remind our readers that difficulties which we have to face and the troubles we have to endure are light compared with what most of the nations of the world are facing and enduring, infinitely lighter than they would have been but for the men who fought and suffered at Vimy and elsewhere in the war.

Europe remains still troubled, restless, impoverished. The spectres of war famine and pestilence are still hovering close to the frontiers of the nations of Europe. The peace and security we take for granted, they are clinging to desperately and fearfully. It is not questions of lower freight rates or wheat pools that exercise their minds. It is questions of threatened life and freedom that are constantly before them.

What is true of Europe is even more true of Asia, of parts of Africa, of a great country like Mexico with double the population of Canada. We shall do well to remember that at present Canada is one of the most favoured lands in the whole world in respect of its peace and safety.

With a great price obtained we this freedom. These battle anniversaries are fitting days on which we may think with a spirit of thankfulness that we have been so guarded through the dangers that threatened us, and may resolve that so far as in us lies, we shall be worthy of the heritage so won for us.

NEWSPAPER EDITORIALS

Most newspapers contain as a regular feature editorial articles. The nature of these articles varies with different countries and with each individual newspaper. Just as in some churches the sermon is a very small almost insignificant part of the service, while in others it occupies most of the time and is the chief feature of the service, so in some newspapers the editorials occupy the greater part of the main page, while in others they constitute trifling paragraphs in unimportant places.

Nowadays the editorial, like the sermon, is shorn of much of its former glory. Congregations no longer sit in fear and trembling, while their austere spiritual overlords thunder forth over their heads the awful terrors of eternal punishment. Instead they do peacefully under a tedious exposition of the minor prophets, or are mildly interested in the latest international news on bridge parties. So the newspaper readers of today are apt to give the most cursory glance at the editorial page, and hastily turn it over in order to study with hearty approval the doings of Meggie and Jiggs.

Unless we are much mistaken, we could in these editorial columns of ours make the most startling and untruthful statements, and they would pass absolutely unnoticed by the majority of our readers unless we called attention to them by some such startling headline as "Scandalous Crime by Well Known Citizen of Red Deer," printed in big type. Suppose we try.

We beg to announce that Messrs. Ralph Griffin, Charles Payne and Cecil Carswell of this staff have all been made archbishops in the Mohammedan Church and intend to have four wives apiece in the immediate future. All young and beautiful ladies interested please apply by telephone to this office. Do you think those three rascals will get a single call? Not one, even from girls who have never seen them, and don't know anything about them.

It is possible to put this neglect of editorial reading down to the widespread mental laziness of the public, who like to pick up spicy or sensational news items in big headlines on the front page. On the other hand, it may just possibly be due to the deadly dullness of the editorials themselves. The somniferous boredom of the average congregation during the sermon may be due to the overloading of their wicked souls with original sin and worldliness in general, but it may also be due to the clergy of today having ceased to deliver a vital message. Nobody is really in the very least interested at the present time in editorial discussions as to whether the Alberta government has or has not been guilty of a grave political crime in wiping out the Clearwater constituency, but if a newspaper could provide in its editorial columns simple and effective instructions for getting rid of business depression, high taxation, and extravagant public expenditure, or for avoiding all matrimonial snarls, those columns might in time compete in interest even with "Bringing up Father," and editors might come to be almost as important people in the community as medieval saints or modern liquor commissioners. In the words of the Cockney song: "Oh my, wouldn't that be luvverly?"

EDITORIAL NOTES

(While everyone may not entirely agree with the Rotary Club on the necessity in Red Deer of community playgrounds, everyone will agree that as a body they are entitled to the utmost commendation. They have raised the money they set out to raise; with the aid of a very fine donation from the staff of the Alberta Government Telephones, and to do so they never hesitated to spend their own time or money. People may not all know the Club members who took part in the recent minstrel show all paid for tickets which they did not use, or that the Club bought the flowers for presentation to assisting artists and did not use any part of the proceeds of the show.

The U.F.A. is responsible for the statement that the aims and problems of the farmers and labor are and always have been equal. The editor of that paper has either not given the matter any thought or he is speaking for political motives, and every few lines he speaks of the degraded politician. As a matter of fact and figures, the laborer of today receives on an average 78% higher wage than he did in 1913, while the cost of living is only 54% higher than in that year. That is to say, the laborer is in over 10% better position than before the war. But what about the farmers, market gardeners, fruit growers and stock raisers? Is their lot better than before the war?

The farmers cry that they must have reduced freight rates, cheaper goods and lower taxes. But it is not possible to reduce these charges and prices because labor is crying continually for higher wages. Farm machinery companies charge much more than they did for machinery, but when they pay their wage bills they are losing money. Freight rates are terrible, but the railways lose money because their wage bills are so high.

The Labor Government in England is riding for a fall. The new bill dealing with evidence for non-payment of rent will be opposed by all Conservatives and possibly by the Liberals and moderate Laborites. It does not seem reasonable that landlords should give lodging for nothing to any man who happens to be out of employment while grocers and taverns charge for what they supply him.

Even at that the English Labor Government's bill is more sensible than that part of the Alberta Government's Liquor Control Act that prohibits liquor advertisements in newspapers or on billboards. Why allow a job-printing office to print and distribute any amount of posters advertising liquor, while the newspaper is prevented from printing the advertisement? Any reputable newspaper stands behind what it prints. No job-printing establishment gives a thought to what it is printing. Is the reason that the farmer members are taking this small, spiteful way of getting even for the wicked treatment they allege they have received from Alberta newspapers? It looks like it. Would it not be a wise move to add a clause to the bill to the effect that no one in Alberta could sell any food or clothing to a liquor vendor?

The National Council of Women advocate the sale of oleomargarine in Canada, stating that what was good enough for the boys overseas, should be good enough for the rest of us now. Our boys were often given a shot of rum overseas. Does the National Council of Women advocate the general use of rum because our boys had it overseas?

THE ROTARY CLUB MINSTREL SHOW

he presented lovely bouquets of roses to the ladies, and a box of candy to Stuart. The News reporter is informed that the Rotarians themselves arranged for the token of their appreciation. The only money that came out of the proceeds of the show were the rent of the hall and the advertising.

The show wound up with "The Black Breech" of Promiss Cass, a screamingly funny farce written and staged entirely by home talent. Rotarian Chas. Weston as the plaintiff, H. B. George as Seraphina St. Selwyn, the defendant, W. E. Payne and Fred Turnbull as Lawyers Snowball and Brass, Chas. Condon as the Judge, G. H. Lindsay as clerk of the court, E. Ainsworth as the main witness, and a jury of Rotarians, made up the cast. They would have been singing yet if the wife of the plaintiff had not arrived and created a diversion. Unless there is an appeal, the case will no doubt remain in favor of Seraphina, but it won't do her much good if that black female with the razor lays her hands on her. The Jury are still out.

A great deal of credit must be given to Mrs. Dawe and to Mrs. Johns, each of whom spent a great deal of time and patience welcoming the musical end of the programme in to the hall. Gen. Fleming, who had charge of the arrangements and presentation, is also to be commended over the success she showed with. And, above all, credit is due to the rank and file of the Club, of which every member was ready to do what he was asked to do without delay or complaint. And thanks are also due to the several members of the chorus and play from outside the Club who freely gave of their time and efforts to help put the show over.

Mutual Service

Measured in Millions

THE steady growth and increasing usefulness of this company may be illustrated in no more striking way than by the figures showing the annual payments to policyholders. For example, this table comparing figures for every tenth year since 1873:

1873.....	$ 2,687
1883.....	62,595
1893.....	212,828
1903.....	493,721
1913.....	1,396,445
1923.....	$3,369,743

The total disbursements of the Mutual Life to policyholders or their beneficiaries up to the end of 1923 amount to the immense sum of $47,108,707.62.

Policyholders of today will appreciate the present position of the Company when they understand that at the present moment we hold in reserve for future payments or less than $39,383,426.66. This means a total either paid to policyholders, or held in reserve for them exclusively, of $106,092,134.28.

The Mutual Life of Canada is one of the strongest insurance companies in the world. Let us send our literature explaining the principles of true Mutuality.

MUSSOLINI IS WINNER AGAIN

Fascisti Returned to Power in Italy by Large Margin

Rome, April 6.—Benito Mussolini has again triumphed in Italy. The Fascisti's battle cry—taken from the battle cry of the old Roman Legion—rang through Rome Sunday night as it was officially announced that the Nationalists had polled sufficient votes in the election to secure the election of their entire ticket and the continuance of Premier Mussolini's regime.

Long before the polls closed at nine o'clock, the Fascisti chiefs, on the basis of telephone reports from the leading voting centres, declared that they had polled the twenty-five percent of the national vote which will be necessary to insure the election of the Nationalist ticket of 366 deputies.

Throughout the day the entire Fascisti organization has been mobilized in uniform in all Italian cities, working to bring electors to the polls. The opposition has been indifferent to the voting, not even bothering to effect an election day organization. Throughout Italy the day apparently passed off quietly, as no news of any kind or serious incident was received at the office of the Minister of the Interior here. In Rome itself, the same quiet reignited the Fascisti, working with machine-like precision, supervised the polling of every possible Nationalist vote.

Under the new election law a Fascisti victory had been virtually assured, but the black shirt organization desired to poll the largest vote possible in order to make an impressive showing of strength and to put the future Fascisti government on a strictly parliamentary basis.

In point of fact a Fascisti victory means that the opposition will have only 179 seats in parliament, thus assuring that Premier Mussolini will remain in office, and his party out by his own party. There is every indication that the premier will remain at the helm for many years to come.

WEEKLY NEWS BULLETIN

Issued by the Publicity Commissioner, Government Buildings, Edmonton.

First Annual Corn Show
The first annual corn show in the province will be held in the city of Medicine Hat in November next, special grant having been provided by the Legislature for that purpose. This will be exclusively for exhibits of corn. The city of Lethbridge has already established a corn show in connection with its annual seed and potato show.

Provincial Livestock Pool
Organization of a provincial livestock pool is now under consideration by the various livestock shipping associations in operation.

New Settlers
Sixty-two families of Hebrideans will arrive in Alberta within the next two weeks to take up farm homes in Central Alberta, selected for them by the settlement board of the federal government. Twenty-eight more young Dutch farm laborers arrived during the past week in Lethbridge to take up work on the farms of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation tract. Entries for 60 homesteads by new settlers were made at the Dominion Land Office at Edmonton during the month of March, indicating the commencement of the movement of new settlers to the province.

British Scientists Coming
Delegates to the annual convention of the British Association of Scientists, which is to be held in Canada this year, will pay a visit to Alberta during the month of August, travelling in two special trains.

Third Alberta Man Honoured
P. Pallen, one of the best known dairymen of the province, has been honoured by the Danish Government with the Order of the Dannebrog, a Danish Knighthood, this being the highest of honours to be so honoured.

Successful Bull Sales
The annual bull sale held at Calgary during last week was very successful, some good prices being realized. A total of 161 Shorthorn changed hands, as well as 44 Angus and 119 Herefords. The total amount involved in the sales was about $42,450.

Oil Activity
Preparations are being made for further extensive development work in the petroleum fields of central and southern Alberta during the coming summer, and the indications are that a large number of new drilling rigs will be at work, chiefly in the field east of Edmonton.

A CLEVER BOY

Near the end of the season our boy announced the height of our tall maple tree to be thirty-three feet. "Why, how do you know?" was the general question. "Measured it," "How?" "Foot rule and yardstick." "You didn't climb that tall tree?" his mother asked anxiously. "No," just found the length of the shadow and measured that." "But the length of the shadow changes." "Yes; but twice a day the shadows are just as long as the things themselves. I've been trying it all summer. I drove a stick into the ground, and when its shadow was just as long as the stick, I knew that the shadow of the tree would be just as long as the tree, and that's thirty-three feet."

The sentimental bride at a fashionable seaside resort watched the sun set in rapturous silence. Then she murmured: "See, George, darling, how phosphorescent!" "It's no wonder," responded the matter-of-fact bridegroom, "when you think how many matches are made in this place."

Here and There

A dispatch from London, England, states that the Sudan Government, through Capt. F. C. Miles, general manager of railways and steamers, Sudan, Africa, has accepted a tender from a British Columbia firm for 150,000 railway ties of Douglas fir. The contract expressly stipulates that the railway ties shall be of Canadian origin.

British Columbia's shipment of water-borne lumber to overseas markets totalled $21,707,182 board feet last year, against $21,460,000 in 1922, an increase of 91 per cent. This announcement was recently made by the provincial minister of lands and it is a remarkable index of the rapid expansion of the lumber industry in British Columbia.

Under a scheme inaugurated by the Provincial Government it is announced that British Columbia will advance loans up to $300 a family to settlers from the Hebrides, on condition that the British Government advances a like amount. In view of the present depression in the islands, it is expected that the British Government will co-operate.

Keen interest in all Canadian manufactures and especially in mines, pulp, leather and rubber goods, heavy machinery and farm machinery is now manifested by France and Belgium, according to H. E. Tessier of Montreal, who recently accompanied a delegation of these manufacturers on a tour through every important city in these countries. Mr. Tessier believes that the tour will bring great practical benefit to Canada as soon as French currency becomes more stable.

The exterior of the great Canadian pavilion at Wembley has now been completed, and the interior decorators are busily finishing the interior. The pavilion is the work of a man who has just returned to Canada abroad the Canadian Pacific liner. The pavilion is being rapidly assembled and everything points to Canada's display being ready in time for the opening of the British Empire Exhibition.

That Canada's culture has nothing to fear from the promised flow of immigration from continental Europe was demonstrated recently delivered by J. Murray Gibbon, Canadian author and litterateur, in an address on "Canadian Literature and the Foreign-born" given in Montreal recently. Of all the Scandinavian races contributing to the Canadian population, Mr. Gibbon considers the Icelanders to have the highest literary mentality.

More than 15,000,000 bushels of grain have been received at the Government elevator at Vancouver, B.C., from Canadian Pacific Railway cars since the opening of the crop year, according to a report issued by railway officials. Exported from Vancouver in the same period there have been 29,416,524 bushels, comprising 16,488,248 bushels to the United Kingdom, 4,630,105 to the Orient and 8,338 bushels to South America.

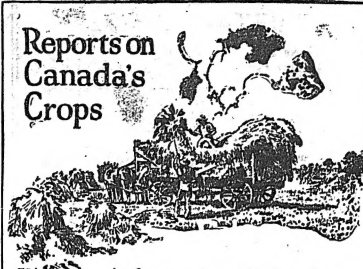

The aggregate value of all field crops in Canada in 1923, was $891,765,200, according to a report of the Bureau of Statistics, a decrease of $70,538,000 from 1922, caused mainly by the lower prices applied practically to every crop. This sum was made up of the following items: wheat, $316,000,700; oats, $117,704,400; hay, $20,665,100; corn, $11,245,900; hay and clover, $192,882,000; mixed grains, $17,654,800; potatoes, $57,078,300; turnips, etc., $22,650,100; corn, husking, $12,465,000.

A golden wedding, celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. R. Williams, of Regina, Saskatchewan, was one of the novelties enjoyed by the passengers on board the Canadian Pacific "Empress of Britain" when the ship was at Barbados during the West Indies cruise. Here Comes the Bride was played by the ship's orchestra, and a huge wedding cake was baked, adorned with 60 candles and presented to the happy couple at a surprise party, in which even the crew joined.

Earl Bridges, 17-year-old musher, from Le Pas, Manitoba, won the Eastern International Dog Sled Derby at Quebec, receiving the gold cup and $50 awarded for the team first past the winning post. The race was run on three successive days, February 21, 22 and 23, in a cold, sharp, 40 miles, under extremely trying conditions due to the heavy snowfall on February 20, which was the worst Quebec has known for half a century. Bridges, who won the Le Pas Dog Sled Derby, also captured a silver cup awarded for the best-matched team of dogs in the Quebec race. There were 15 starters.

BIDDY'S BUG

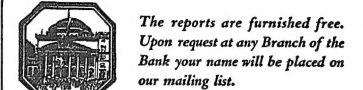

A gentleman of this city went fishing the other day, and among other things that he hauled in was a large-sized turtle. To enjoy the surprise of his servant girl, he placed it in her bedroom. The next morning the first thing that bounced into the breakfast-room was Biddy, with the exclamation of "Be jabbers, I've got the devil!" "What devil?" exclaimed the master, feigning surprise. "The bull bug that has been atting the children for the last month."

Reports on Canada's Crops

At frequent intervals throughout the season the Bank of Montreal issues reports on the progress of the crops in Canada. These reports, telegraphed to headquarters from the Managers of the Bank's 550 Branches, cover every Province and form a reliable index of crop conditions.

The reports are furnished free. Upon request at any Branch of the Bank your name will be placed on our mailing list.

THE HOODOOS, JASPER NATIONAL PARK

JASPER PARK LODGE, in Jasper National Park, Alberta, is ideally situated as a convenient center from which to climb mountains, traverse trails and motor roads, or embark on fishing and hunting expeditions; while golf, tennis, boating and bathing are right at its door.

For those who have just a short time to spend in the Park there are miles and miles of motor roads through winding valleys and up mountain grades, along the shores of swift rivers and past quiet lakes, to mountain, glacier and canyon. Towering above all other peaks in the vicinity is stately Mount Edith Cavell, its crown of snow reaching a height of 11,033 feet. From Jasper or the Lodge Mount Edith Cavell is in full view, but it is only by travelling the eighteen miles to Lake Cavell, nestling at the foot of the mountain, that one can really see all the wonders of this now famous mountain named for that heroic British nurse, Edith Cavell, heroine of the Great War.

The peculiar formation of a glacier on the side of Mount Edith Cavell adds to the interest of the place. In a cirque between the mountain and the shoulder extending to the north is a hanging glacier covering about a third of a square mile. An ice fall about three hundred feet wide connects this with another glacier five hundred feet below, the irregular shape of which extends along the foot of the cliffs for more than a mile. This mass of ice presents the form of an angel with outstretched wings and has been aptly named "Glacier of the Ghost." At another point on the mountain a combination of rock and snow forms what appears to be a side view of the head of a turbaned oriental knight. In photographs taken from Chak Peak this formation is plainly discernible.

The road to Mount Cavell is along the valley of the Athabasca River, across the turbulent Miette River, Whistlers and Port Keegan, continue across the historical Astoria River, which it follows in a southwest direction at the same time climbing the lower slopes of the mountain and finally reaching the shores of Lake Cavell. Many stops should be made en route to view such interesting features as the natural hoodoos with their flat stone hats just along the slope below the road.

Half an hour by motor from Jasper Park Lodge, with mirror-like lakes reflecting the rugged outline of forest and mountain for miles posts, brings one to Maligne Canyon. The scenery along this gradually ascending and winding roadway is unsurpassable. Skirting innumerable little lakes, each of a different hue from the light yellow of Ochre Lake to the opal-like coloring of Lake Edith with its sandy beach for bathing, the road winds round above the Athabasca Maligne River for a short distance one comes to the mouth of the canyon through which great rushes

1st PACK WOLF CUBS

2nd Annual Report, 1923-1924

The Pack has had a fairly successful year. We met 47 times on Tuesday evenings for the usual weekly meetings. During the year 7 new boys have been enrolled, 2 have been transferred to the Scouts, 1 to No. 2 Pack, 4 left town and 3 were taken on the roll for non-attendance. We now have 10 boys on the roll, 3 of whom joined the Pack when it was organized in 1923. Our Pack Leader (Sixer A. Gordon) is leaving us shortly, having reached the age limit. He is to receive a formal transfer from the Pack to the Scouts at the end of the month. On April 15th the Pack, together with the Scouts, 2nd Pack and Guides, was inspected by the Chief Scout (Sir Robert Baden-Powell) who was passing through Red Deer on his way to Calgary. Also in April a talk was given by Mr. C. A. Trimble on Butter Making.

The annual church parade with No. 2 Pack was held in May to St. Luke's Church. On July 2nd members of the Pack assisted at the Fair Grounds in serving tea and coffee at the Board of Trade picnic. A week and camp was held in July in competition with No. 2 Troop of Scouts at Sylvan Lake. Five members of the Pack were present and a most enjoyable time was spent.

Thanks to No. 2 Troop, we are now able to share their club room, which proves most satisfactory, and is more central in winter. We hope to resume outside meetings as soon as the weather permits.

In September we were invited to Mr. C. A. Trimble's home for the evening and spent a jolly time. On January 7th we had our New Year party in the club room, to which parents were invited. On February 5th a meeting of parents and others interested in the Pack was held. At this meeting, in accordance with the new regulations for the province, a "Local Association" was formed to look after the welfare of the Pack. The following officers were elected: President, Mr. C. A. Trimble; Vice-president, Mrs. Lindsay; Sec-Treas, Mr. A. E. Foster. When this Association is completed we hope to receive our Charter.

The Pack wishes to thank all Scouters and others who have helped and taken an interest in our doings during the past year.
